THE report of the House Committee on Civil Service Reform severely criticises Postmaster General WANAMAKER for ignoring the recommendation of Commissioner ROOSEVELT to dismiss employes of the Baltimore Postoffice who contributed to a campaign fund. But what else might be expected from a Democratic source? If the Foreign Missionary fad and the Civil Service fraud could be corralled under one big canvas, the aggregation would prove a dangerous competitor of 'the Columbian Exposition.

The prevailing sentiment in England on the reciprocity question is well shown by comments like this one from The Liverpool Mercury:

AKRON'S FEARS.

A Destructive Deluge Trembling Above That City.

A Chain of Lakes About to Empty Their Contents

Upon the Resident and Factory Portion-Continued Rains Have Raised These Lakes to an Unprecedented Height

-Embankments Liable to Break.

AKRON, O., June 21 .- Akron is threatened by a danger that is appalling in its possibilities. Immediately south of this city is a chain of lakes, which constitute the source of supply of the Ohio canal. The chain comprises Turkey Foot, Long and Summit lakes, and the big and little reservoirs, the superficial area of which aggregates nine thousand acres. The almost continuous rains of the spring and summer have raised the water in these lakes to an unprecedented height, and fears are entertained for the safety of the embankment which runs between the reservoirs and Long and Summit lakes.

Notification of the danger came to the canal authorities Sunday night, and all night men watched the bank with anxiety. During Sunday and Sunday night the water rose seven inches, and it is now almost over the bank. Should the heavy rains of the past few days continue, nothing could prevent the bank from giving way, and the vast avalanche of water would sweep into Long and Summit and then down the course of the Ohio canal, through the very heart of the city. The canal banks are thickly populated, and factories, and stores, and residences extend to the very edge of the water on both Should the break come the loss of both life and property would be in-

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 21.-Another skin-game has been worked on the Louisville public, and many citizens mourn the departure of C. H. Echols with about $2,000. About eight months ago, last October, C. H. Echols came to Louisville and established the Louisville Merchandise and Brokerage Co. His company gave $50 certificates. One matured each week for every fifty subscribers, who had to pay in $1 a week. The scheme went all right until the certificates fell due. A few days ago Echols and his partner, Perry, went away. It is thought they went to Cincinnati, where the detectives believe they have been working a similar

editorially Tuesday morning:

"The New York delegation to Chicago tied itself up with a resolution to support Hill so long as he was a candidate for the presidency. Senator Hill is not a candidate, but is simply holding the delegation together as a means of beating Mr. Cleveland—now a forlore and futfle hope.

" The nomination of Mr. Hill has long been seen to be wholly improbable. It is now known to be utterly impossible. " The claim that Mr. Cleveland can not carry New York is ill-founded. He can carry it if any editorially Tuesday morning:

World's Fair of the past. CANADIAN RECIPROCITY. ident Harrison Hits It on the Head With An Az.

Washington, June 21.—In a state paper sent to the senate Monday in answer to a resolution of February 24 last calling for information relative to reciprocity negotiations with Canada, the president sounds the death knell of that project and plants a mile post in American history by deliberately, in effect, recommending that congress proceed to retaliate upon the Dominion for its persistent denial of the rights of American citizens (guaranteed by the treaty of Washington) in conection with the navigation of Canadian canals. The president in his communication says that his answer to the resolution was delayed at the suggestion of the secretary until the conference of the 81st inst. took place between the secretary and the British minister, and Hon. McKenzie Bowell and Hon. Geo. E. Foster. Hon. John W. Foster also appeared on behalf of the government of the United States at the request of the secretary of state. The president says:

"The result of the conferences, as to the practicability of arranging a reciprocity treaty with the Dominion of Canada, is clearly stated in the letter of Mr. Blaine, and was anticipated, I think, by him and every thoughtful American who had considered the subject. A reciprocity treaty limited to the exchange of natural products would have been such only in form. The benefits of such a treaty would have inured almost wholly to Canada. Previous ex-periments on this line had been unsatisfactory to this government. A treaty that should be re-ciprocal in fact and of mutual advantage must necessarily have embraced an important list of manufactured articles, and have secured to the United States a free or favored introduction of these articles into Canada as against the world: but it was not believed that the Canadian min-istry was ready to propose or assent to such an arrangement. The conclusion of the Canadian commissioners is stated in the report of Mr.

Blaine as follows:
"In the second place, it seems to be impossible for the Canadian government, in view of its present political relations and obligations. to extend to American goods a deferential treatment over those of other countries. As Canada was a part of the British empire, they did not consider it competent for the Dominion government to enter into any commercial ar-rangement with the United States, from the benefits of which Great Britain and its colonies should be excluded."

"It is not for the government to argue against this announcement of Canadian officials" opinion. It must be accepted, however, I think, as the statement of a condition which places an nsuperable barrier in the way of attainment of that large and beneficial intercourse and reciprocal trade which might otherwise be de-veloped between the United States and the

INDIANA DELEGATES

Go Over to Cleveland, and Will Stick to Him to the Last.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The fight between the Cleveland and Gray factions in Indiana is over. At 8 o'clock Monday morning both factions held seperate caucuses. The Cleveland men were reinforced by C. R. Pollard and J. E. Cass, of the Tenth district. For the first time these two delegates entered the Cleveland caucus, both promising to stand by Cleveland as long as his name was before the convention. At the Gray coucus the delegates were demoralized. An informal talk showed that every delegate conceded Cleveland's nomination. In order to place the state in a creditable position before the country it was decided not to present Gov. Gray's name, but to join the Cleveland faction and vote as a unit for the ex-president. The Cleveland faction, having secured half of the delegation, gave the antis to understand that it was a matter of indifference to them whether they came over or not. When the two factions had been seated in secret session at the Palmer Monday afternoon not a was uttered until John E. Lamb announced that Gov. Gray's name would not be presented, and then moved that the delegation vote as a unit for Cleveland on the first and subsequent ballota. Editor Morse, for the Cleveland side, demanded a call of the delegation so that each delegated be placed in black and white. Every delegate voted for Cleveland. James Murdock, another anti-Cleveland man, proposed that Senator Voorhees should econd the nomination of Cleveland. Senator Voorbees, at the request of the delegation, accepted.

A Pair of Rubber Boots Cause the Brotherin-Law

Massillon, O., June 21 .- A distressingly fatal ascident Monday afternoon was the drowning of Josiah Chutz, jr., on of County Commissioner Clutz, and brother-in-law of Hon. John McBride, national president of the United Mine Workers. He attempted to pass under the West street bridge in a skiff, and as the water was almost up to the floor of that structure, he laid down in the boat and attempted to pull through by grasping the brace-rods beneath. Both oars were wrenched off, the boat apsized and Clutz took the advice of friends by undertaking to swim to shore. He was handicapped in his efforts by a pair of rubber boots, which reached to his hips, and went down in the presence of several hundred people, and although the river has been dragged for six hours and dynamite exploded, the body has not been recovered. victim was a single man, aged 82, and was a fine machinist and musician.

Turners Denounce Sunday Closing. WASHINGTON, June 21.-The North American Turners' union closed its convention here Monday.
